

humanness

Our classrooms foster in children an appreciation of their God-given dignity where each student is a light for others and brings their light to the world.

community

Our classrooms model the kind of community that forms students to be citizens who contribute for the common good of society.

hospitality

Our classrooms are inclusive where we welcome all people and commit to live in solidarity with all.

justice

Our classrooms model the kind of community that forms students to be citizens who contribute for the common good of society.

Eight Characteristics of Catholic Identity

spirituality

Our classrooms are rooted in the life of the Trinity, acknowledging God as the source of all creation, centred on Jesus Christ and nurtured by the Holy Spirit to build up the Kingdom of God.

tradition

Our classrooms pass on God's revealed word established by Jesus Christ and his "good news of salvation."

sacramentality

Our classrooms call our members to "see God in all things." We encounter God's presence and grace coming to meet us through the ordinary of life as a "visible sign of God's invisible grace."

rationality

Our classrooms require learners be primary agents of their own learning rather than passive recipients of knowledge and are encouraged to use their whole minds in the pursuit of learning.
